

CHURCHILL, ROOSEVELT, AND CHIANG ARE IN CONFERENCE WITH STALIN TO DECIDE FATE OF COMMON FOE, GERMANY

President, Prime Minister and Generalissimo, at Completion of Historic Meeting in Which Program Was Decided Upon to Crush Japan and Strip Her of All Territories, Go To Undisclosed Destination To Meet Stalin in Four-Power Conference.

By Pierre J. Hux

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
CAIRO, Dec. 2.—(INS)—President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek today were reported in conference with Premier Joseph Stalin to decide the fate of Germany, common enemy of the United Nations.

The President, the Prime Minister and the Generalissimo, at the completion of their historic six-day meeting in Cairo, left with their large diplomatic and military entourage for an unnamed destination, reportedly to meet Stalin.

(Reuter, British news agency, stated the conferees were headed for Persia to meet Stalin. Axis sources declared the four-power meeting is taking place in Teheran.)

The dramatic meeting of Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang, at which a new program was decided upon to crush Japan and then strip her of all territories she has conquered since 1895 was not attended by the Russian Premier, presumably because of the fact that the U. S. S. R. is not at war with Japan.

It is assumed by authoritative persons who are in a position to know, that the four-power meeting now reported to be going on with Stalin present, will result in a similarly determined decision concerning the United Nations' treatment of the Nazi Reich when final victory is achieved.

Competent quarters interpret the Cairo conference and the reported meeting with Stalin as a definite sign that the Allies now are both able and ready to inaugurate offensives simultaneously in several theatres of war.

The supreme objective of such huge, new synchronized strokes in both the western and eastern hemispheres was described as a definite illustration of the grim determination of the democracies to stand staunchly together in the common struggle against oppression.

The historic Cairo conference at which it was decided to crush and punish Japan is expected to give new impetus to the entire war effort and encourage all of the United Nations to expedite the war through closely related grand-scale offensives in all combat areas in the near future.

Announcement of the steps taken to free oppressed China, Manchuria, Formosa, Korea and the Jap-held Pacific islands was expected immediately to give a tremendous boost to the morale and hopes of Jap-dominated peoples throughout the Far East.

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANEED BY SCRIBES

Approximately 20 persons attended the annual farm products show and baking exhibit of the Chalfont Grange, Monday evening.

A guest was Miss Mary Jacoby, the home economics representative in the county who served as judge of the baking exhibit. Miss Jacoby also gave an illustrated talk at the close of the show. Harvey Hunsberger and Isaac Gross judged the corn.

Surrounded by approximately 70 friends and relatives, including three of their four children and their grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hennessy, Sr., Newtown, on Monday celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at a dinner at the Temperance House, Newtown. The event, which was arranged by their children, was featured by the serving of a turkey dinner.

One member of the family unable to attend the dinner, during which the bride and groom of 50 years ago were presented a large number of gifts, was a daughter, Miss Anna M. Hennessy, who is serving with the WAC at Alpine, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Steward Lord, Morrisville, have received word that their son, Capt. Michael A. Lord, and Miss Ruth C. Manning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Manning, Auckland, New Zealand, had been married in New Zealand on November 24th.

AMERICAN AIRMEN, IN LESS THAN TWO YEARS, ESTABLISH DECISIVE OVERALL VICTORY RATIO OVER ENEMY; DESTROY OVER 1,000 WAR PLANES

(This is the first in a series of two articles by Lee Van Atta, International News Service war correspondent in New Guinea, describing activities of the American air force and its brilliant record of victories over the Japanese in that area.)

By Lee Van Atta

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WITH THE FIFTH AIRFORCE IN NEW GUINEA, Dec. 2.—(INS)

—Two years ago this week some American pursuit pilots and their aircraft left the Pacific coast of the United States, bound for the Philippines.

They never reached their destination—the war intervened when their convoy was less than 200 miles from Wake Island. Reouted to Australia, the personnel of that convoy remained in the southwest Pacific to form the nucleus for what has become in 19 months of combat "one of the most effective fighter forces in the world."

American airmen in less than two years' combat in the southwest Pacific area have established a decisive overall victory ratio over the enemy, it was disclosed to International News Service today by Brig. Gen. Paul Wurtsmith, chief of the Fifth Airforce fighter command.

In air actions which have ranged from Darwin to Rabaul, he reported that United States pursuit pilots have destroyed more than 1,000 Japanese warplanes with the loss of few of their own craft.

The score and ratio of American losses in comparison to those of the enemy is believed to establish a record unparalleled in the history of the Army air forces.

Gen. Wurtsmith, who at 37 is one of the Army's veteran fighter officers, credits "hit and run" tactics, superior American firepower and more aggressive Yank pilots as factors contributing to the extraordinary victory total achieved by his airmen.

Generally regarded as the Pacific counterpart of Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, in China, Gen. Wurtsmith has utilized in many respects Chennault's tactics of both offensive and defensive fighter strategy.

Using outmoded planes—again like Chennault—and against Japanese forces invincibly numerically superior, Gen. Wurtsmith led a handful of American P-40 pilots in the brilliant defense of Port Darwin against an enemy air offensive which threatened to envelop all of northern Australia.

Without adequate warning service, with only the most primitive maintenance facilities, and with a supply line which generally hinged on an "act of God," Wurtsmith and his men drubbed the Nip so badly he had ceased fullscale bombardment sorties against Darwin by late summer.

The tactics that saved Darwin were brought to New Guinea last summer when Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, newly arrived commander of Allied airforces, selected Wurtsmith to lead his entire fighter command.

The strategy called for defensive employment of fighters then, but in the fifteen months that have elapsed Wurtsmith's fighters have joined the bombers in an air offensive that has shaken the whole Japanese position in the southwestern Pacific.

In sweeps against Madang, Alexishafen and Wewak, his Thunderbolts have taken an even increasing toll of the enemy's direct defensive power. Twin engines Lockheed Lightnings, operating from far forward bases have pounded Japanese aircraft strongholds at Rabaul and Wewak.

Ask Wurtsmith how his done and he can give you the answer in three words:

"Hit and run."
Hit and run does not mean, however, to hit the Nip and hightail it home. It is a concept of combat

CONCERT SERIES TO OPEN HERE DEC. 13TH

Three Concerts in the Series To Be Given in St. James' Parish House

ARTISTS ARE LISTED

The Bristol Co-operative Concert Association announces that the series of three concerts for the 1943-44 season has been scheduled for December 13th, February 28th, and March 13th.

The programs this season will be conducted in St. James' parish house, Walnut street, at the hour of eight p. m.

The three concerts offer diversified entertainment of excellent quality, an instrumental ensemble, a baritone, and a monologist in original character sketches.

The Bary Ensemble will present on December 13th a program of numbers for the piano, flute, violin and cello.

On the 28th of February Edward Roecker, baritone, will be the guest artist.

The artist coming to Bristol on the 13th of March is Helen Howe, said by a London daily to be "the most provocative of American solo actresses."

Another "Full Dress" Conference Under Way

Cairo—Reports that a new full-dress conference among leaders of the United Nations already is under way flooded into Cairo today following the momentous meeting which brought President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek together in the shadow of the Pyramids.

Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin of Soviet Russia already is playing host to the Allied conferees at Teheran, capital of Iran, one of the reports said, lending apparent confirmation to previous rumors that the Chinese Generalissimo would meet with the Soviet chieftain.

(Editor's Note—A Reuter dispatch from Chungking said that the Generalissimo already had returned to the Chinese capital from the tripartite conference at Cairo.)

The same atmosphere of mystery and secrecy which surrounded the Cairo meeting prevailed with regard to the new conference, and from this Egyptian capital it was impossible to describe in any detail the new conference or to predict its outcome.

High Dignities Accompany Stalin to Conference

London—High military and political chiefs of the Soviet Union are accompanying Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin for a conference with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill in Persia, the German overseas radio said today, according to a Reuter dispatch from Stockholm.

Quoting the newspaper Svenska Dagbladet, the dispatch said that Soviet Marshal Vassilevsk is traveling with Stalin, as well as former Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov.

President Edouard Benes of the Czech Government in Exile was reported in Teheran, but will not participate in the conference, the dispatch said.

Fallsington Businessman Is Honored by Friends

FALLSINGTON, Dec. 2.—On the occasion of his 71st birthday anniversary, H. Clinton Neagley, was honored by friends here on Tuesday.

Mr. Neagley, a general storekeeper and former postmaster here, was paid tribute for his 43 years of service to the community, the group gathered presenting him with a number of gifts. These included a letter of congratulation on which were placed the names of his fellow-townsmen.

Mrs. Tada Mikuriya, accompanied by a committee representing Mr. Neagley's many friends, made the presentation. These included Mrs. Howard Hill, Mrs. Cranford Hutchinson, and Frank Hartman.

Mr. Neagley was born in Killinger, Pa., in 1872, and came to Fallsington in 1901 with his bride, the former Miss Minnie A. Grosh, Milton Grove. For 13 years following, he was the principal of the Falls township schools. He later became postmaster and served the village in that capacity for 28 years until his retirement in December, 1942.

Mr. and Mrs. Neagley's three children were born and raised here. Their oldest son, Dr. Ross L. Neagley, is supervising principal of the Newtown schools. Their daughter, Mrs. Ethel Alexander, is secretary in a real estate office at Morrisville, and their younger son, Clinton, is with the Les Brown band in Hollywood. Mrs. Alexander and her 7-year-old daughter, make their home with the Neagleys.

During the 28 years of Mr. Neagley's postmasterhood, he also conducted a general store, in which enterprise he still continues.

REPORTED CAR STOLEN; THEN DENIES IT

Youths Who Had The Car Wrecked It, and One Pays A Fine

OWNER IS ALSO FINED

Two men accused of stealing an automobile were discharged this morning by Justice of Peace Arthur P. Brady, when the owner of the car informed the Penna. State Police that he had given them permission to use the car.

Those involved: Benjamin Maurer, 127 Butler street, Trenton, N. J., owner of the car. He paid a fine of $25 and costs for permitting his car to be operated by other than a licensed driver. Leonard Mauro, Elm street, Bristol. He paid a fine of $12.25 for operating an automobile without a license.

Joseph Leister, West Bristol. He paid costs of $5 as also did Mauro, and both were discharged on the charge of stealing an automobile.

Maurer, owner of the car, reported his car stolen to the Bristol police on Monday evening. He said that the machine was taken from Mill street. Police started out to search for the car which later was reported wrecked on State Road, Croydon.

In the investigations made by State Police and Bristol police, Mauro and Leister were taken into custody by Sergeant Ferry.

It was then that Maurer changed his story and this morning told Justice Brady that he had permitted Mauro and Leister to take his car.

The car, according to Mauro, who stated that he was the driver, turned over many times with he and Leister. Mauro was slightly injured, while Leister escaped being hurt. Pvt. Sawyer, of Penna. State Police, investigated.

Leister is the youth who was involved in a shooting affair at Croydon on May 20th. He was allegedly shot by Walter Rice when he (Leister) is said to have attempted to entice Rice's daughter.

Leister failed to appear in court, Tuesday, against Rice, who was tried for the shooting.

Name Mrs. R. Hubbert To A Teaching Position

PERKASIE, Dec. 2.—Mrs. Roberta High Hubbert has been selected to fill the vacancy that will be left on the Sellersville-Perkasie high school faculty when Lloyd Hoagley's resignation becomes effective in February.

Mrs. Hubbert is a graduate of Sellersville-Perkasie high school and Ursinus College. She has been chosen by the joint school board, which has had a number of vacancies to fill this year.

At present, Mrs. Hubbert, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Harrison High, is a substitute teacher at West Rockhill consolidated school.

P. T. A. CONDUCTS A PANEL DISCUSSION

Representatives of Home, Church, Community and School Take Part

AT SOUTH LANGHORNE

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Dec. 2.—"Preparing Our Children for Post-War Construction" was the subject of a panel discussion conducted by the Parent-Teacher Association in the public school building here on Tuesday evening. Representatives of the church, school, community and home participated.

Attended by approximately 70 persons, representing 11 of the associations throughout the county, the meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. John A. Flood, New Hope.

The first speaker during the panel discussion was County Superintendent Charles H. Boehm, Morrisville, who represented the school. Schools, he said, are inclined to be from 30 to 50 years behind the times, and as new teachers take their places the system will be changed. Conduct, said Mr. Boehm, will be stressed, and emphasis will be placed upon the child's ability to get along with other children.

Representing the community, Clyde M. Davis, formerly principal of the New Hope-Solebury school system, said the schools should serve as community centers, where people may meet for recreation as well as for instruction. He also commented upon the value of night schools to the community.

The home was represented by Mrs. Alvin R. Pratt, Morrisville, who brought out the point that mothers at all times should be willing to assume their responsibilities in the home, even though they may be engaged in war industries.

Substituting in the absence of Dr. Ruth Fedder, the child psychologist of the county, who was ill, Dr. Genevieve Bowen, supervisor of elementary education in the county schools, spoke of mental hygiene, and in this connection brought out the point that the child must have a sense of security in the home and in the school.

The Rev. Chester J. Buzzard, pastor of Newtown Methodist Church, spoke of the need of convincing people there is a living God, and said there must be a vital faith in religion, and a vital personal experience.

White House Issues General Statement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The White House last night announced the following:

"President Roosevelt, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and Prime Minister Churchill, together with their respective military and diplomatic advisors, have completed a conference in North Africa."

The following general statement was issued:

"The several military missions have agreed upon future military operations against Japan. The three great Allies expressed their resolve to bring unrelenting pressure against their brutal enemies by sea, land and air. This pressure is already rising."

"The three great Allies are fighting this war to restrain and punish the aggression of Japan. They covet no gain for themselves and have no thought of territorial expansion. It is their purpose that Japan shall be stripped of all the islands in the Pacific which she has seized or occupied since the beginning of the first World War in 1914, and that all the territories Japan has stolen from the Chinese, such as Manchuria, Formosa, and the Pescadores, shall be restored to the Republic of China. Japan will also be expelled from all other territories which she has taken by violence and greed. The aforesaid three great powers, mindful of the enslavement of the people of Korea, are determined that in due course Korea may become free and independent."

"With these objects in view the three Allies, in harmony with those of the United Nations at war with Japan, will continue to persevere in the serious and prolonged operations necessary to procure the unconditional surrender of Japan."

NEWTOWN MAN PLEADS GUILTY TO DRUNKEN DRIVING

Suspended Sentence and A Fine Pronounced For John C. Rounsavill

OTHER SUCH CASES

Richlandtown Youth Pleads Guilty To Forged Check Charge

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 2.—Smashing into the car of Maurice O. Shull, Route 113, between Newtown and Langhorne, at 9:25 p. m., September 26, 1943, John Carroll Rounsavill, 42, of Newtown, pleaded guilty Monday before Judge Boyer to the charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

The other occupants of the car with Shull included his wife and two children and Mrs. Shull and one of the children were slightly bruised from the accident. The damage to the Shull car amounted to $95.12, which was paid by Rounsavill last week.

The defendant acted in a belligerent manner and seemed to be unable to remember very much, according to the testimony of Pvt. Charles Jones, of the Pennsylvania Motor Police, who investigated the accident. Because of the odor of liquor on his breath, Pvt. Jones had the defendant examined by a physician, who pronounced him intoxicated.

Judge Boyer gave him a suspended sentence, placed him on probation for a year and fined him $100 and costs.

When John James Petry, 35, Genesee street, Trenton, N. J., on the evening of October 22, 1943, started his car after stopping before entering Bridge street from Pennsylvania avenue, Morrisville, he did so in such a peculiar manner as to attract the attention of the traffic police at the intersection. The police officer in his car followed Petry down Bridge street to a point where he turned off to a side street and, because of his weaving trail, the officer required him to stop. Upon examination, Petry was found to be under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty to driving while drunk.

He explained to the Court that he was meat manager of the American Stores in Trenton and that he was taking the store manager home that evening but had only expected to take him as far as the bus station in Trenton, otherwise he would not have taken the two "shots" of whiskey and the five beers he had before starting.

"We expect men in your position to set examples of good citizenship," said Judge Boyer, when sentencing Petry. "That you had no accident where some one might have been killed or seriously injured was fortunate for you and not due to any care on your part."

Petry was given a suspended sentence and placed on probation for one year and was fined $100 and costs and warned to abstain from drinking during the probation period.

Kenneth Zeiler, 19, of Richlandtown, pleaded guilty to a charge of

WHAT OUR BOYS ARE DOING TO WIN THE WAR

When Uncle Sam trains Johnny Doughboy for the battle against aggression, he not only stresses physical and technical fitness, but goes one step further and gives each of his khaki-clad charges numerous opportunities to increase his education.

One of the most recent efforts to develop an intellectually keener army is the "Education in Military and Current Affairs" program, inaugurated by the European Theatre of Operations Special Service Division.

Specially chosen officers and non-commissioned officers direct the popular, informal discussion periods one hour each week. Interesting, educational debates evolve from the main topics, "American News and Affairs" and "Progress of the War and World Affairs."

One of the many soldiers taking advantage of the educational opportunity, at an aerial reconnaissance station in England, is PFC Wentzel W. Douglas, son of Mrs. Sadie Bamberg, of Humesville, Pa., a clerk for the Station Complement squadron. Before entering the army February 1, 1943, he was employed by the Manhattan Soap Company at Bristol, Pa. He graduated from Langhorne-Middletown High School in 1942,

INCHING TOWARD TOKYO

American marines and soldiers, battling the Japs on three atolls in the northern Gilbert Islands group, are registering new progress in the slow and tedious task of driving the enemy back toward Tokyo. American forces have now drawn much closer to the Japanese island bastion of Truk and have extended the fighting zone hundreds of miles north of its past limits.

There can be no doubt that one of the main objectives of the new front is to provide an arm of the pincers that eventually will be closed on Truk, which serves to protect the Japanese supply lines from the homeland to the occupied island positions further south. While Truk has not been brought directly under attack, bases have been obtained from which new advances may be launched to place this highly-fortified island within bomber range and lay the groundwork for the final attack aimed at its elimination.

Other islands in the adjacent Marshall and Caroline groups have now been brought within the zone of attack, and early blows at some of these islands have not been scheduled.

Invasion of the Gilbert Islands may have a second objective almost as important as the offensive against Truk, and that is the opening of the chain of island bases which lie athwart the flank of the main American supply route in the Pacific. With these island bases reduced to impotence, the task of supplying American forces in other sections of the great ocean battlefield will be greatly simplified, and additional strength can be brought to bear on the main task of advancing toward Tokyo.

To make an effective counter-stroke, the Japs would be forced to bring their fleet into action, and, on the basis of past performance they will be unwilling to risk it in the island fighting.

WAR RISK RATES

Frequently the scope of war developments can be measured by reaction to them in the financial marts. That is illustrated in the degree of present control over U-boats. It is measured by declines in the war risk insurance rates on cargo vessels.

All North Atlantic rates are down sharply. Voyages to Iceland and Britain pay 3 per cent of the value of the cargoes. The rates formerly were 4 per cent. Rates along the east coast of the United States have been cut in half, averaging now about three-fourths of 1 per cent. Voyages to the West Indies pay the same rate, after having been much higher. America early in the war lost scores of ships on that run.

The highest cargo war risk rate now is 9 per cent for shipments to and from Turkey. A year ago the published schedule was 30 per cent. Shipments between points in the Western Hemisphere have been returned to the regular marine risk rates which prevailed before the war.

"THAT KEITH WOMAN" by PHYLLIS MOORE GALLAGHER

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

I knew that somewhere in those shadows was—someone. I strove to overcome my fear. I tried to raise my arm and reach for the little turn-button on the milk-glass lamp on my night-table. But overcoming such fear is like trying to grasp a ghost by the throat. I lay there, perfectly still, perfectly rigid, except for nerves that jerked the length of one leg, nerves that tightened in my throat and long, cold fingers of nerves that clutched at my heart, squeezing it painfully.

My nightgown grew wet with perspiration: cold and soggy, making the fragile blue silk cling to me clammyly. I lay rigid, eyes closed to slits, hoping the murderer—and I knew it was the murderer—would make some false move so I could leap screaming from the room!

Even in my panic a tough core of determination and instincts of self-preservation deep in my brain had figured out my route of escape. If he—or she—approached me from the right, I'd leap for the bath, slam and lock the door, and then howl bloody murder from the bathroom window. If I were approached from the left, I'd race for the hall, but out of the door there and make for the lobby, nightie or no nightie!

And thus I waited, watching the shadows, swallowing with such effort I was afraid it sounded like a dud bomb falling. Suddenly I saw the shadow on my right move, just a fraction—just a slight change in that black pattern of velvety darkness. I heard the muffled sound of a board creak beneath the heavy pile of the rug. Then silence once more. A deathly, horrible, hideous silence.

My potential murderer was cautious. Already he or she—or a combination of he and she together—meant to avoid detection.

I wanted desperately to know what time it was, and if Mother and Father had returned home.

The shadowy pattern changed again, and for the first time I saw a shadow move within the shadows. It moved so swiftly, so gracefully, so stealthily, that I was almost certain it was a woman.

It couldn't be Earle Pines with his lumbering gait, nor Reginald with his heavy feet. . . . Other names went through my head: Wayne Courtney, Victor Corliss, Luke Cramer, Marvin Eustace, even Peter Gibson. . . . Countess Fanella Castagna? Surely it couldn't be the waddling Fanella. Not stealthy like this. . . . Gladys Newcomb? Elsie Eustace? Sandra? Charlotte Cunningham? Which one? Which one?

The shadow slithered to my right, and I dared not turn my head to follow it. I knew I was going to scream and that nothing could keep me from it—and screams might mean my instant death! I felt hysteria leaping in sudden bounds to my throat. There was no stemming it.

My mouth opened and with a horrible fascination I listened for those blood-curdling shrieks, that deluge of panic. . . . But not a sound passed through my lips—and I knew why: I was paralyzed with fear. It was like some horrible nightmare, wanting to scream for help and completely unable to. . . .

I can't remember clearly just what happened next. One minute I was lying there, cold, rigid, wet with perspiration; then I was struggling to rise and run for my life. I remember I leapt out of bed. . . . But the shadow was swifter than I.

Just before I reached the door that leads to the corridor, I heard a key scraping in its lock which meant that Mother and Dad were returning from Kate Lot's. Then the weight of the world came down on my head. I didn't even hear the swish it made as it struck me. I don't know how long I lay in that pitch black bedroom, but the sky was pale with dawn when I came to, and there was a little pool of clotted blood on the Chinese oriental rug where I had fallen. And I had the granddaddy of all headaches. Moving my tongue hurt, and my lips were feverish dry. I knew that if I tried to get up something hideous would happen; so better lie quiet.

But I couldn't for long. Something hard and sharp was sticking me in the rear. I thought, I've been stabbed, too—and of all places! I gave a great heave and wrench, rolling over and away from whatever was prodding me, and sat up. I began to feel around in back of me for a knife. But there was none. My fingers closed instead over a sharp-toothed rock! I did not pick it up.

Stumbling blindly to my feet, I staggered down the long corridor, knowing, bucking at every step, I landed against Mother's and Dad's door, my fingers found the knob blindly—and I almost fell into their room. Mother, instantly awake, sprang up in bed—and then leapt out of it. Her face was fright-white over her chin strap. Dad had me in his arms the next moment, and mercifully I fainted.

It was almost eight a.m. when I came to and was able to tell my parents and the hotel's physician—Dr. John Redmond—what had happened.

"Dad and I looked in on you at one-thirty," Mother remarked miserably. "You were sleeping like a babe."

Father said: "From now on, until this horrible business is cleared up, we'll all sleep in the same room. Why the intruder didn't finish you off, Lord knows! But, thank God, you're still living!"

"And thank you next door neighbor, too," I put in. "You know how that liquor-loving gnat gets on a binge a couple of nights each week, always misses his door, and tries his key on ours. I think that's what he was doing last night, and the sound of his key in our lock scared the murderer away. When I heard that key I thought it was you and Mother coming in from the party. But since you were already home, it couldn't have been anyone else but our neighbor—Lord bless him!"

"Letty, was the slagger a man or a woman?" Dad asked. "I haven't the faintest idea. I'm inclined to think it was a woman, though. That shadow was so silent, so stealthy—and in a way, graceful. Yes, I think the murderer is a woman."

Dr. Redmond began to be morbidly technical then, saying that if I had been struck a little more to the left, a little bit lower at the base of the brain—in fact, if I'd been struck almost any other place—I would have been served up to the newspapers this morning as the latest Public Corpse.

"But you don't even have a concussion," he declared. "A day in bed, quiet, something to steady your nerves, and I'll guarantee you'll be yourself again."

"I don't want to be myself again," I said, and felt the screaming meenies returning. "I want to be . . . someone the murderer isn't after!" And then, I added, "Dad, I was hit with a rock—just like Pamela!"

"I know, Letty," he said. "I found it in your room. We haven't looked it. Finger-prints, you know. Look, dear, do you feel strong enough to talk with Sergeant Hornblower? I think he ought to know about this attack."

Sitting up in Mother's bed, craning my neck toward the window, I managed to get the rock garden on the lawn in focus. Just as I'd expected there was another new space between the rocks.

"By all means call the police," I agreed, and sank back on the pillows weakly. The homicide specialist came over instantly, and for the first time I think he was almost convinced that I wasn't the murderer. But only after Dr. Redmond told him patiently and repeatedly that my head wound couldn't have been self-inflicted. It was a physical impossibility.

"But if this young woman was in cahoots with a confederate—a brain doctor or someone else—who knew just where to hit her on the head to knock her out without killing her. That's possible, isn't it?" the Sergeant inquired.

"Well, yes," answered the doctor. "I suppose so. But it seems a bit farfetched."

"Not if the hot seat was waiting for them and they knew it."

"The hot seat, sir?"

"The electric chair," explained Hornblower.

"Oh, I see. Well, I still say it's farfetched. Perhaps it could have been like that," said Dr. Redmond nervously. And right there before my eyes I saw Sergeant Hornblower mentally listing the wizened little gray-haired doctor as a suspect.

"Live here at the hotel, Doctor?" he asked, showing all his piano-key teeth in a wide smile.

"Yes, I do."

"I've seen you over at the Keith house a lot lately, haven't I?"

"Yes, I have a patient over there: Mr. Luke Cramer. He had the flu, strep throat. I treated him and though his temperature is now almost normal, he has definite symptoms of rheumatic fever; stiffness in his joints, in the base of his neck. His pulse is rapid. . . . The little doctor tried to make us understand that he'd done his best to force Luke Cramer to realize that bed was the only place for him, which accounted for his frequent visits to the Keith house."

"But he won't stay in bed," Dr. Redmond finally said and waved his hands in a gesture that dismissed any responsibility for his patient's future health. Then he wiped his brow shakily with a handkerchief, obviously hoping he'd convinced the Law of his legitimate connection with the Keith house.

I believed the doctor, and I think the Sergeant did, too, when he dismissed him politely.

KNOW YOUR STATE

Despite the fact that Pennsylvania has no sea coast, the state is and always has been one of the leading shipbuilding states in the Union. At present, scarcely a day passes that fails to see numerous craft launched from the shipyards of our state, ranging in size from ship tenders and sub-chasers to the largest battleships the world has known. Although the number of vessels constructed during other wars appear few when compared with the production of today, the contribution made by the shipbuilders of those days was just as important to the successful prosecution of a war as it is now.

An outstanding example of a major contribution by Pennsylvania in the production of sea power occurred in the year 1812. At that time the British captured the Adams, the only armed vessel owned by the United States on the Great Lakes which placed them in full possession of Lake Erie and in position to strike a fatal blow at any time. To offset this advantage gained by the enemy, the construction of a fleet was begun in 1812 near Erie under the protection of the ice barrier. The building progressed during the winter under difficulties because of the lack of workers and material. The white and black oak for the frames and the pine for the decks were readily available but it was necessary to bring the iron over bad roads from Pittsburgh.

By spring two large vessels, the Niagara and the Lawrence, were completed as well as several smaller ones. These, in addition to a few smaller vessels procured at Buffalo, formed a fleet under Captain Perry which successfully engaged the British later in the year and ended the danger to the Nation at that point. Today, as over a hundred years ago, Pennsylvania is again launching fighting craft on the Great Lakes and elsewhere, but now in cooperation with the British, to protect and preserve our Nation and carry the war to the enemy wherever they may be found.

American Airmen Destroy Over 1,000 War Planes In Less Than 2 Years which utilizes every capability of an American warplane to the tactical disadvantage of the enemy—in short, neutralizing his best fighting capabilities.

"If you're going to fight the Jap, make him fight on your terms," is Wurtsmith's sage advice to his pilots.

The Jap has only two real weapons in his fighter planes—maneuverability and rate of climb," he says. "We obviously can't dogfight him on his terms. To whip him, then, we had to take advantage of our forward firepower, faster speeds, better diving abilities and the punishment our aircraft can take in comparison to his.

"Hit and run means we take a pass at the enemy aircraft, get out of his range with superior speed and whip back to hit him again when it suits us. That's what we mean by fighting him on our own terms."

Those terms have so far been proven costly to the Jap to the tune of more than 1,000 aircraft destroyed.

Mountain Climbing Subject Before Club

A snow storm encountered half way up the peak delayed the party for a day. Rest was secured in cabins along the rough trails, said climbers being bolted and chained to rocks to prevent them being blown loose in the terrific winds which occur at times. Temperatures encountered at times are 60 to 65 degrees below zero as compared to 80 above zero at the base in August, when Mr. Pennock and his party made the ascent. A 5,000 drop from a narrow ledge at one point would have ended in Italy, while a drop of 5,000 feet a short distance away would have landed them in France.

The speaker informed that individuals are not supposed to climb without guides, and if they do so and become lost no authorized rescue groups are sent out.

Mr. Pennock showed pictures of mountain climbing scenes.

Zimmer Vansant presided, and the birthday anniversaries of Melvin Mack and Edgar Beckes were observed. Guests were Messrs. Andrew Chamberlin, Manohar Ketter, and Walter deLashmott, of Morrisville club.

drawing a forged check for $29.24 and signing the name of George W. Amey, of Richlandtown, as the maker of the check.

He admitted that he stole a check out of Amey's check book and then forging the whole instrument, including two names on the back of the check.

Zeller cashed the check at John H. Esser's news stand in Quakertown on October 16th.

The defendant, on parole when arrested this time, was committed by Judge Keller to not less than 18 months in the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at White Hill. Zeller was in court five months ago for operating an automobile without the consent of the owner.

"I forged the check in order to get some money to have some fun," Zeller told Judge Keller.

At the time the crime was committed the defendant was making over $40 a week.

Judge Keller told Zeller, in pronouncing sentence, that a person has protection against a thief but not against a forger.

"But the law catches up with a forger, too," Judge Keller added.

Fire destroyed the large barn on the property of William Reiner, near Kulpsville, Saturday night. The loss included the building, an automobile, tractor, corn planter, binder, a number of machine shop tools, and about 100 ducks.

Five pigs and several scores of chickens were saved. Three poultry houses, built near the barn, were damaged.

Four fire companies fighting the flames were greatly hampered by the lack of water and the high winds that swept across the fields and whipped the flames to such a point that the farm house was seriously endangered for a time.

Churchill, Roosevelt, and Chiang In Conference With Stalin To Decide Fate of Foe

In North Africa was a forewarning to Emperor Hirohito that the days of Japan's dominance in the Pacific area are drawing to a close. The campaign mapped by President Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang Kai-Shek involves first, the crushing of Japan as a military power, and, secondly, the stripping from Nippon of all the territories conquered by the Japs since 1895. The plan has as its prime objective the unconditional surrender of Japan, the sole condition under which hostilities will cease as provided in the Casablanca declaration by President Roosevelt and Churchill.

Japan is to be relegated to the status of a third-rate power with all her resources which would aid future aggressions removed.

The principals gathered for the week-long conference, from Monday, November 21, through Saturday, November 27, after travelling vast distances by air and sea. President Roosevelt crossed the Atlantic and North Africa by air. Generalissimo Chiang and Madame Chiang, wife of the Chinese President and Premier, who acted as his interpreter, came across Asia by plane. Churchill made the greater part of his journey aboard a British warship.

Although the main discussions at the parley involved the smashing of Nippon, the three leaders, before leaving North Africa for undisclosed destinations, also viewed the global aspects of the war.

The high commands of all three nations were present at the conference, including operational chiefs in the main theater of operations. The American party which joined President Roosevelt numbered just under 100. Churchill's staff consisted of some 200, while Gen. Chiang brought with him a score of leaders to participate in the talks.

The conference marked the first time that the Chinese Generalissimo had come face to face with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill. The magnitude of the parley was obvious due to the presence of more than 300 military experts and other advisers included in the three parties.

American Fortresses Hammer Fiat Ball-Bearing Works

Algiers—Huge American Flying Fortresses today were revealed to have hammered the Fiat ball-bearing works for the second time in a "large-scale" attack on the north Italian city of Turin.

The plant, which was rendered inoperative for a considerable period by the November 8th raid, was undergoing repairs by the Nazis. Attacking in two waves, the Forts started huge fires and set off many explosions throughout the target area, an official communique said.

Nearly railroads were also hit, as well as the Fiat Motor Company. Another small force of B-17s struck at nearby Villanova airfield, scoring hits on the hangars and parked planes.

All the American planes returned from the operations.

War Correspondent Honored for Gallantry

On the Fifth Army Front in Italy (Delayed)—Before a guard of honor and in a colorful ceremony with few parallels since the war began, Michael Chinigo, war correspondent for International News Service today was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action and the Purple Heart for wounds in combat.

The commanding general of the U. S. Third Division pinned the medals on Chinigo's uniform and paid him personal tribute.

Chinigo was cited for bravery in landing with the first group of assault troops on the shores of Sicily and for assisting the wounded. He was also cited for entering Palermo in advance of Allied troops to inform Italian troops that American forces had taken the city, and for entering Messina prior to its occupation and returning with two truckloads of Italian prisoners.

Germans in Full Retreat near Adriatic

Algiers—A new breakthrough by the British Eighth Army on the Adriatic end of the Italian battlefield has forced the Germans into "full retreat," a special communique from the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower announced today.

The retreat, however, is not a rapid one, for the enemy is moving backward slowly, fighting for every yard and making full use of demolitions, minefields and rearguards.

The Germans are rushing "heavy reinforcements" from northern Italy to the battle area in an attempt to check the battling Eighth in its drive toward Rome.

Nazi losses in killed and wounded have been very heavy, the official communique stated, and more than 1,000 German prisoners were captured by the Eighth.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's men in their forward push captured the entire strategic Fossacesia Romagnoli ridge, and the strategic town of Rocca San Giovanni, two miles inland from the Adriatic and four miles north of the Sangro River.

Announce American War Casualties

Washington—Secretary of War Stimson announced today that American Army casualties since December 7, 1941, total 94,918 dead, wounded, missing and prisoners of war.

This included 14,321 killed, 32,690 wounded, 23,417 prisoners and 24,490 missing.

Triple Murders Appear Solved

Toledo, O.—The Thanksgiving eve slayings of three members of the McCoy family near Washington, C. H., O., appeared solved today with the purported confession of James W. Collett, 30-year-old brother-in-law of Elmer McCoy, that he had shot McCoy to death in a dispute over money.

Sheriff W. H. Icenhower, who announced the confession, said that Collett claimed to have a lapse of memory after shooting McCoy, leaving unsolved the murders of McCoy's wife and the couple's daughter, who were shot at the same time.

2 Men Burned, 7 Families Driven Out by Fire

Philadelphia—Two men were burned and seven families with 15 children were driven into the streets in scanty night attire when fire swept through a suite in the Holland apartments at Sixteenth and Mt. Vernon streets.

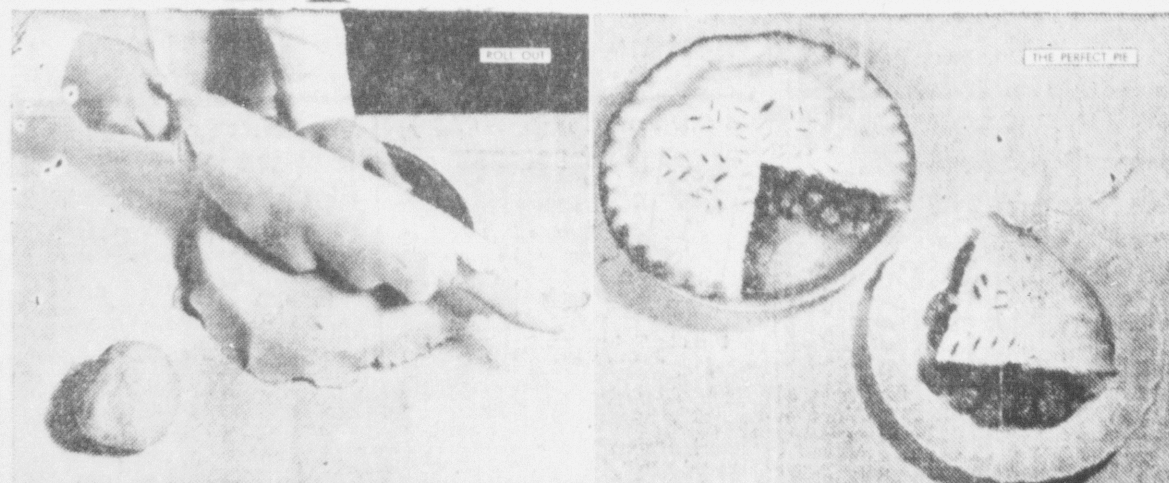

A policeman who smelled smoke aroused the seven families, carried the three small children to the street and then rescued Eugene Healy, 23. Hospital physicians said Healy suffered serious burns. His roommate, William Dean, 29, escaped with minor burns.

The fire started in the apartment occupied by Healy and Dean, employees of a chain grocery warehouse.

EASY STEPS MAKE THE PERFECT PIE CRUST

1. These are the ingredients for a perfect two-crust pie: Two cups flour, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup lard and four to six tablespoons ice water. The lard should be cold, too. Lard is workable even when just removed from refrigerator.
2. Cut lard into flour and salt mixture until crumbs are coarse and granular. Add ice water, a little at a time, sprinkling it over the fat and flour. Mix quickly and evenly throughout the flour with a fork, until the dough just holds in a ball.

3. Roll half the dough to about one-eighth inch in thickness. Lift edge of crust and roll onto rolling pin. Line pie pan. Add filling; roll out top crust. Cut gashes in top crust for escape of steam. Place over filling; crimp edges.
4. Here is the perfect pie. The top crust overlapped the lower crust and was folded under it to prevent the escape of juice. The pie was baked in a moderately hot oven (425° F.) for 35 minutes.

BRITAIN FACES HARD HOLIDAYS

Christmas Fare To Be Restricted; Holiday Likely to Be Just Another Day

TURKEYS ARE SCARCE

By Charles A. Smith
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Dec. 2.—(INS)—All the signs indicate this is going to be a hard Christmas.

Probability is that it will be much like any other week-end in war-time London.

A survey today showed that not one family in fifty will get a turkey. Offers of forty dollars for a Christmas turkey are being refused by dealers. They just don't have any turkeys and expect Christmas quota will be nominal. There weren't many last year and there will be at least a further 40 per cent cut in available birds this Christmas.

Chickens, geese and ducks are scarcer and more expensive per pound per bird than turkeys. The humble rabbit seems to have gone to permanent burrow. Fish is very scarce. Red meat is restricted by ration to twenty-seven cents' worth a week per person. Shell eggs are rationed, as are currants, sultanas and other fruit used in Christmas cake-making.

Fruit is very scarce, and expensive. There will be a Christmas distribution of oranges, for children and invalids only. There are no lemons or bananas, and very few imported nuts.

It's the same story as far as liquor is concerned. A merchant has just estimated that if they put all the sherry in the country into one huge barrel there might be enough for a sixth of a pint per estimated sherry drinker in the land. He also has it figured out that the remaining bottles of rare brandy in the country might provide a sip apiece for the brandy drinkers.

Scotch whiskey is terribly hard to get by the bottle right now and it's going to be a lot worse by Christmas. There's some bootleg whiskey about but it is uniformly bad—and dangerous to drink. Gin

DON'T BE LATE!

The Courier reserves the right to reject copy for display advertising which is received later than two days previous to the day of publication. This rule is now effective and will be in force until after January 1st and may be extended.

All display advertising copy for insertion in The Bristol Courier must be at the Courier office not later than 12 o'clock noon, two days previous to day on which the advertising is to appear. We reserve the right to reject copy received after the designated time.

This rule is made necessary in order to give the mechanical department ample time in which to set the advertisement, and properly illustrate it. It is hoped that advertisers will co-operate and make reservations for space desired, and furnish their copy on time.

Copy will not be accepted after the expiration of the deadline announced above.

COURIER MANAGEMENT.

is in short supply and the bootleg variety is as bad as the bootleg whiskey.

Even the humble beer drinker isn't going to have too much fun. Most local saloons are rationing beer because of short supplies. The ration will be in full force during Christmas—traditional heavy drinking period among the poor, who in peace time always got in a barrel or more.

Present indications are that those who can afford it will try to get a table in a hotel or restaurant and let the other guy worry about the food and liquor problem. But the hotels and restaurants cannot offer much more than the normal war-time hospitality in view of stringent rationing.

Present-giving will be severely curtailed—far more than in any year of the war. Virtually everything is "couponed" and the coupon ration scarcely is sufficient to meet everyday needs, let alone the purchase of gifts.

There are now 4500 copies of the 'Courier circulated daily. Make reading it a habit.

Betty Barclay's Jelly Shelf

GRAPE AND PEAR JAM
(Using loose-skinned grapes)
4 cups prepared fruit
7 cups sugar
1 bottle Certo

Slip skins from about 2 pounds fully ripe grapes. Place pulp in large kettle. Bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 5 minutes. Remove seeds by sieving. Chop or grind skins and add to pulp. Pit, core, and crush completely or grind about 1 pound fully ripe pears. Combine fruits.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in Certo. Stir and skim for 5 minutes. Pour quickly. Paraffin at once. Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

* 2 cups of light corn syrup may be substituted for 2 cups of the sugar.

FASHION PARADE

By Jane Cochran
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK — (INS)—Women have often been accused of taking a long time to make up their minds. If there ever was a time when this accusation was true, it's when a woman goes shopping for shoes.

This was in peacetime, when only the state of the pocketbook dictated how many pairs and what type the woman should buy. Now, with shoes so strictly limited, the selection is a more difficult task than ever.

Shoe retailers and OPA men found this out when the last shoe stamp expired—women who'd kept putting off the final choice jammed the stores at the last minute. But, far from gaining by this long deliberation, they lost their chance of making a leisurely selection, and took what the stores could give them, counting themselves lucky if the shoes fit, much less pleased them.

The picture has been changed this time, with the expiration date of coupon No. 18 extended indefinitely to overlap stamp No. 1 in the airplane sheet in ration book 3.

Extension of coupon 18 allows women more leeway in planning their wardrobes. If a woman still retains coupon 18, she can plan on purchasing two types of shoes—one dress and one utility—instead of searching for an all-purpose type. Designers have helped her in this choice. Figuring that women allocated their first one or two coupons for practical, long-wearing types, they're now showing dressy models.

Shoes now are being designed in distinct types—sturdy yet attractive oxfords, tailored and dressy pumps, open-toed afternoon shoes and sandals for wear with the short evening and dinner dresses.

One manufacturer has placed major emphasis this year on shoes of black suede, grosgrain or satin, trimmed with jet and bows of self material. They'll serve both for afternoon wear and with dinner costumes.

Other designers are concentrating on shoes for walking—buckled or tied oxfords that are excellent with suits, uniforms, and casual clothes. These are in smooth leathers that gain in appearance with each polishing.

Lizard skins and those of other reptiles are widely used this Fall. They are long wearing and the material is relatively more plentiful than more familiar leathers. Many leather saving shoes are made with gabardine, satin, mesh, and woven materials. Leather trimmings are becoming increasingly scarce.

Ankle strap shoes continue to be popular for dress wear. These range from the "baby" type ankle strap shoe to the very fragile sandal.

NUT-CHEESE SANDWICH

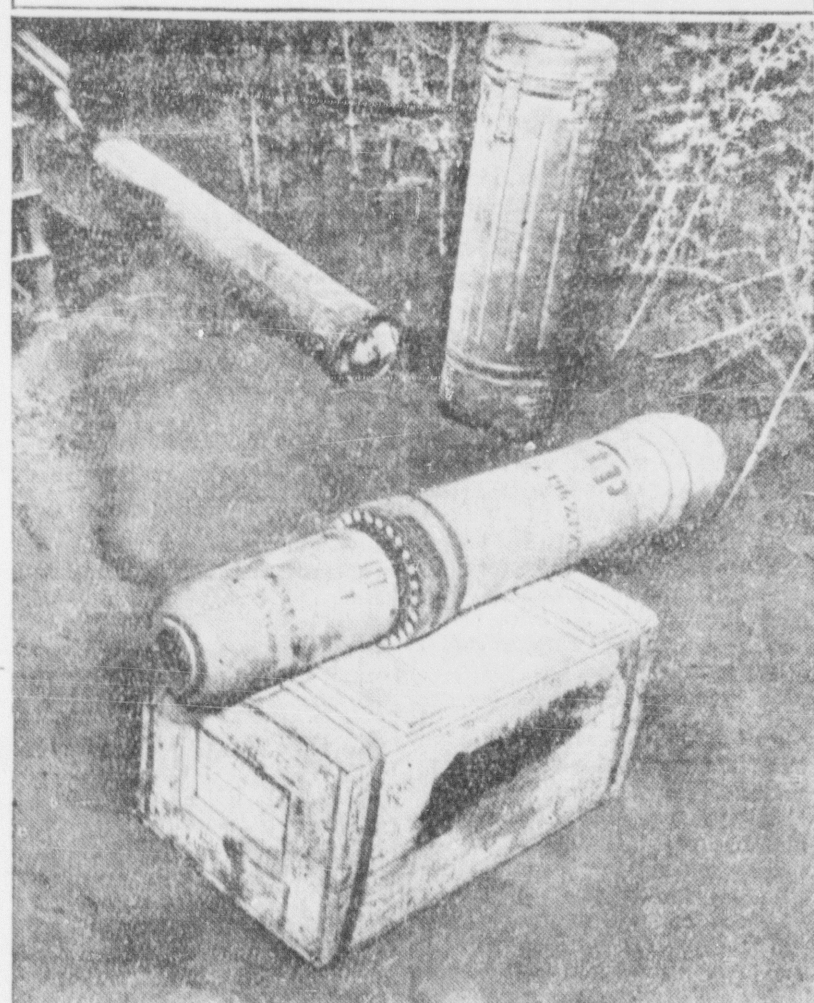

1 3-ounce package cream cheese
1/4 cup peanut butter
1/4 cup orange marmalade
1/4 cup salted peanuts

Mix cream cheese and peanut butter. Spread sliced bread with mixture. Spread secondly with orange marmalade and sprinkle with chopped salted peanuts. Pack in waxed paper for a lunch box treat. Yields: Six regular size sandwiches.

BIG MILEAGE SAVING

CHICAGO — (INS)—A saving of 255,000,000 miles of travel this year through state mileage conservation programs has been predicted by the Council of State Governments. In terms of critical materials saved, this figure has been translated into 17,000,000 gallons of gasoline and 68,200 tires. In dollars and cents, it has been estimated as representing a $10,000,000 yearly saving to the taxpayers.

THIS IS A CAPTURED GERMAN ROCKET SHELL

When our troops moved into Italy after the landings at Salerno the retreating, defeated Germans were unable to destroy all of their material. In one ammunition dump was found a supply of the much talked-of German rocket shells. The one shown here is about four-inch size. The War Bonds you buy are "rocket shells" against the Axis.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

EXCITING HOUSE GIFTS are always in order on Christmas—something different, something a bit unorthodox perhaps. Then why not a fat hassock? The Snellenburg Upholstery Dept. has a delightful gang of them. Ever use one? Well, they're grand for putting about recreation rooms, children's nurseries and playrooms, using for vanity stools, before the fireplace, as footrests before armchairs, etc., etc. The Snellenburg hassocks range in price from $4.95 to $12.95 and are variously covered, many in moleskin or simulated leather. They are particularly well filled and sturdy. Oh, yes, most of them can be washed with a wet cloth! (4th fl.)

THAT NORTH POLE TRIP you and the youngsters can take in the Snellenburg Toy Dept. (4th fl.) is a honey! For a tiny fee there's a journey into the Arctic regions and perhaps the youngsters can even ride upon sledges drawn by real Eskimo dogs! Elsewhere in the Toy Department there are fascinating toys for all ages, including games for gifting young and old. As I told you before, there's a particularly genial Santa who pays affectionate attention to every little trusting girl and boy, and I saw him doling out colorful little booklets the day I was there. Oh, do take the children early!

MAKE HIM WEAR a well fitting and sweat-er under his top-coat on extra cold days. But don't do it obviously—he might rebel. Be clever. Give him an attractive one for Xmas! The Snellenburg Men's Furnishing Dept. has some good models of 100% wool at only $3.95 each. And will they wear! The seams are reinforced, the elbows are double knit. Two roomy pockets. Sizes 36 to 46. (1st fl.)

YOUR ARTISTIC FRIENDS will appreciate gifts of the unusual—well done reproductions of old lustreware and melted in that artistic to be had in that artistic corner of the Snellenburg Furniture Dept.—the "Homemaker's Shop." This would be a Scotch interior decorator's Paradise; prices are so reasonable, things so beautiful. The exquisite luster bits begin at 50c, soar to $15 for a large flower or salad bowl. The milk glass—begins all ashtrays at 35c, soars to only $4.50 for large, beautiful pedestal fruit dishes. (5th fl.)

P.S. Shop personally at this friendly store—Market from 11th to 32nd Sts., through to 1125-29 Chestnut St., Philadelphia. Order by mail or 'phone free (3c, 10c and 15c out-of-town calls only). Penna. number ENTERPRISE 10160, New Jersey WX1150.

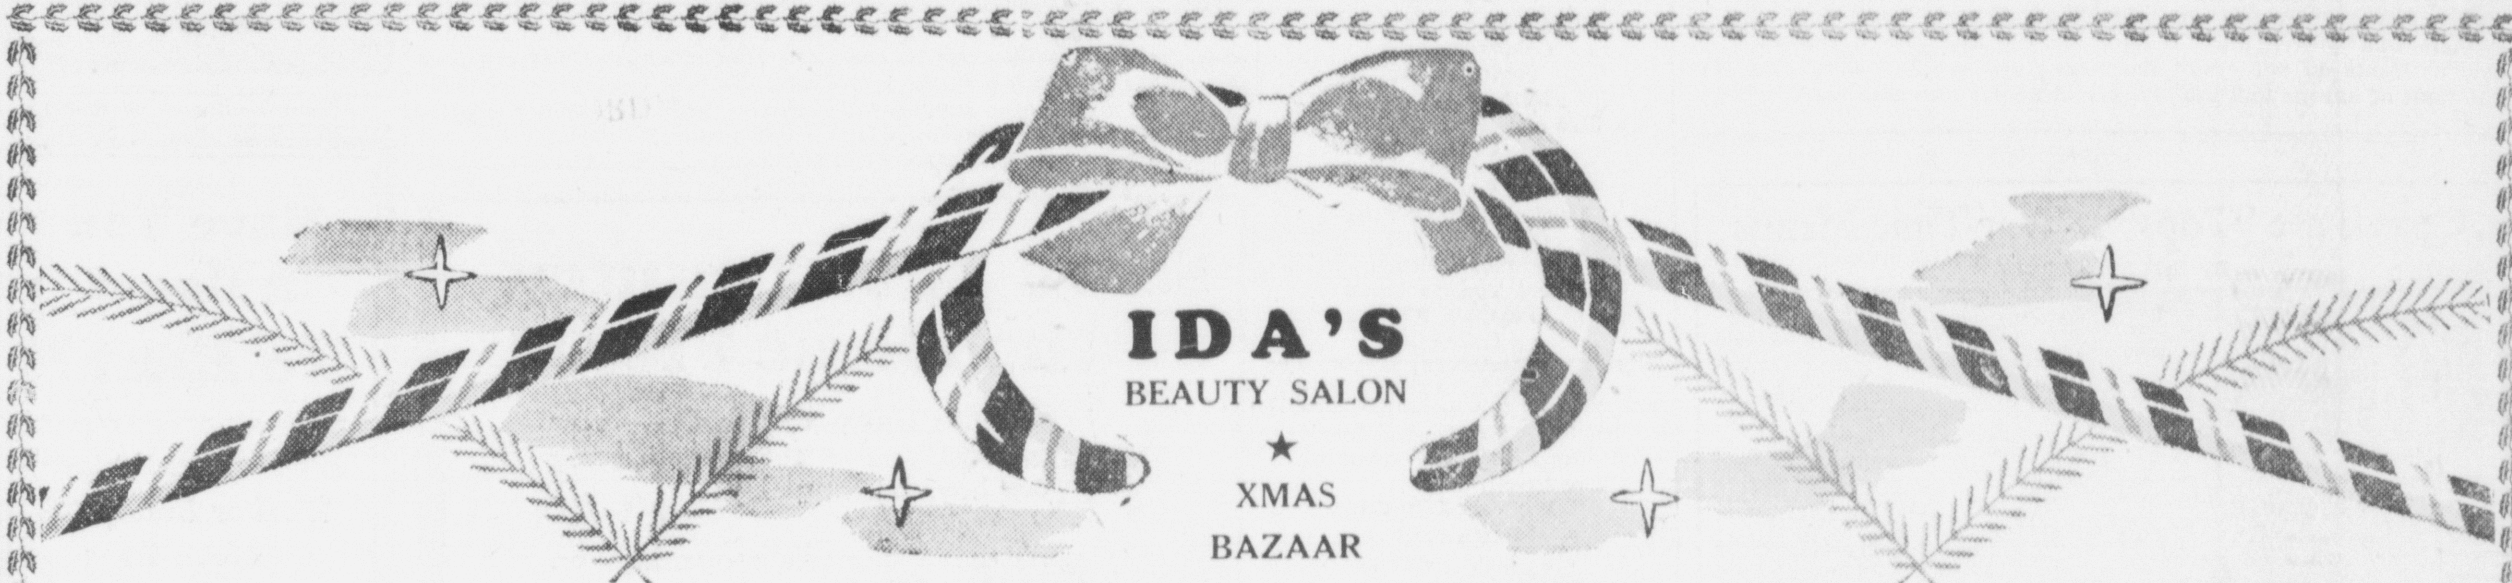

Faithfully, FAITH

A PRACTICAL XMAS gift is popular with many "Budgeteers" this year. I advise those of you who would give something really needed, and at the same time lovely, to purchase more than one of those remarkable "Seamprufe" slips kept the year round by the Lingerie Dept. of the Snellenburg Store (2nd fl.). They just wear better than any others I've tried. Made of a special "Bur-mil" rayon—tearose or white—the seams are reinforced with extra rows of stitching, and the narrow self-material shoulder straps are sturdy and well anchored. The cut makes for both ease and slenderness. Both plain tailored and models trimmed with good laces. Regular lengths. Sizes 32 to 44. And only $2.95.

HE'LL LOVE a smoking jacket! They're increasingly popular now that heating is rationed, and men like, besides, their relaxing informality. Very good looking ones indeed are to be had on the Snellenburg 3rd floor. Smartly tailored, of comfy materials labeled for wool content, with rich rayon cord trimming on collars, cuffs, and pockets. Navy, wine, brown. Sizes 36 to 48. Surprise him for Christmas. $6.70.

FURLOUGH GIFTS for men at nearby bases or camps abound in the Men's Furnishings Dept. of the Snellenburg Store, but I am particularly interested in the complete little 4x5 in. pocket-size shaving kits at $2.50 each. In navy for the Navy, Coast Guard and Merchant Marine and in khaki for the Army and the Marines. They contain an amazing number of necessities—plastic razor, blades, metal mirror, nail file, soap and soap container, tooth powder, shaving cream, comb, styptic pencil, and the cases are water repellent. (1st fl.)

SOMETHING FOR JUVENILES—anywhere from day-olds to six-year-olds—cribs! The sturdy kind, with metal sliding rods. They are to be had in that grand new Infants' Wear Dept. on the 2nd floor of Snellenburg's new Chestnut St. wing. There are colorfully decorated head and foot panels, high, nicely slatted sides. The overall measurements insure comfort and stretching room. Made in white, maple, wood birch. If you're a grandmother, godmother, or auntie, why not look these over for Xmas gifting? Nicely priced—$23.50. Good mattresses are reasonably priced, too.

THE CAPITOL WHIRL

A Digest of Things Political Occurring At Harrisburg

By International News Service
HARRISBURG, Dec. 2—(INS)—The State Bureau of Elections has compiled an unofficial list of the posts to be filled by the voters in the 1944 primary and general elections. . . . At the primary election, April 25, Pennsylvanians not only will nominate candidates but Republicans and Democrats will each elect 113 State Committeemen. . . . In addition, the Republicans will vote for eight delegates-at-large and a similar number of alternates to the Presidential nominating convention while Democrats will choose four at-large delegates and four alternates. . . . Both parties also will pick 70 delegates and 70 alternates.

In the general election, November 7, Pennsylvanians will vote for a President and Vice-President, one U. S. senator, 33 congressmen, one supreme court justice and one superior court judge, a state treasurer, an auditor general, 25 state senators and the 208 members of the State House of Representatives. . . . In addition there will be hundreds of local elections.

John L. Naylor, Administrative Assistant of the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, has said that absenteeism due to accidents is a costly and needless by-product of industry. . . . "Industrial accidents can sabotage our work," he stated. "All accidents are of two types, inevitable and preventable. Inevitable accidents do not result from the fault of anyone and the loss of time occasioned is naturally a part of the cost of production. Preventable accidents are the result of someone's negligence or inexperience." He disclosed that during the first six months of 1943 the peak accident month was March when 18,627 accidents were reported.

The flags that fly over the State Capitol have a "life" of approximately 60 days but the time would be halved if they were not taken down at sunset and even less yet if storm flags were not substituted in "rough weather." . . . Three flags fly over the main Capitol building while two are located in the park, which is a part of the memorial to soldiers and sailors. . . . The flags and positions are prescribed by regulations. . . . The Department of Property and Supplies disclosed that the flags are 19 feet by 10 feet while the storm flags are nine by five and a half feet. . . . The 60-day life of the flags would be cut to 50 minutes if the larger flags were permitted to fly during high winds, the department stated.

Quality, Casual Styling and Warmth All-Important For Long-Term Wearability

Good furs have forever been a gift of many Christmases, and like diamonds, they are the most wonderful gift of all for your wife, your mother or your daughter. And these days a good fur coat is not a luxurious gift, but one of the most practical long term gifts of all because it will give warmth, beauty and satisfactory service for years—all important these days when everything we buy must last. Of course we all know that war bonds rank first on our gift lists, but if you need and are planning to buy a fur coat, consider your purchase carefully. Buy

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

WHAT to offer the family for the coming Sunday dinner seems a bit of a problem. Chicken was substituted for turkey on so many Thanksgivings, and that roasting chickens are now hard to find, though plenty of fowl is available. There still is not much beef or lamb. Pork, however, is coming in and the market continues to offer a good supply of veal.

There is no lack of fresh vegetables to accompany the poultry or meat course, though some vegetables, such as onions, peas and mushrooms are rather scarce. But cabbage, celery, cauliflower, eastern spinach, avocados, beets, parsnips, potatoes and rutabagas are plentiful, and so are pumpkins, for the opening of the pumpkin pie season. Unfavorable weather has cut down the supply of green beans from Florida and sent prices up.

A distinctly cheering note in the food situation, says the A & P Service for Homemakers, is provided by a distinct improvement in the citrus fruit situation. Florida oranges and grapefruit are now offered in excellent quantity, with prospects of continuing good supplies. Winter Nellis pears are available, and Emperor grapes are coming in from California. Cranberries are still on the scarce side. With market conditions what they are, the following suggestions for Sunday dinner may be found helpful:

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

As our guns groped blindly for vital enemy targets in Tunisia, Sergeant Donald V. Peterson of South Minneapolis crept beyond our lines. Snipers and machine guns raked the ground, but he pushed on, snaked forward into view of our targets. Sheltered from withering fire by one small bush, he radioed fire commands and our guns battered the enemy. His country recognized Peterson's bravery with the Silver Star. You can recognize it with another War Bond.

whether career or college girl, war worker or home maker, mink blended muskrat is one of the soundest investments of all. Wonderfully fashionable as they are warm and sturdy, these new mink blended muskrat coats look amazingly like real mink and their rich brown tones harmonize beautifully with every color scheme. Pitch black perstian lamb, perennial favorite, is a superb gift for seasons. The fitted silhouette in Persian is newest and because it is fashioned with deeper armholes it accommodates suits gracefully. Of course the No. 1 fur silhouette of the year is the casually smart tuxedo box coat, simple yet elegant with luxurious turn back cuffs and full tuxedo front. Tuxedo fur coats are noted in everything from magnificent mink to Persian lamb to the budget priced fur coats. Wonderful gift fur coat for the sophisticated career or college girl is the new fingertip "briefer." Dashing cut with slight swing back, it's a striking contrast to the new slim silhouette, and practical point it's long enough for complete warmth, and it's slightly shorter length makes it excitingly new and smart to wear. Raccoon, skunk, American opossum and of course superb silver fox are highlighted in greatcoats—beloved by all American women.

Fur Jackets Lead For Smart Practicality

Taking into consideration the fact that a fur jacket is practically a year round wearable fashion, it is undoubtedly one of the smartest most practical of gifts from "you to you." Of course as a gift from father to wife, or daughter, a fur jacket is absolutely beyond compare for Christmas! Simply wonderful over suits and dinner clothes alike, the new fur jackets are longer which adds to their superb good looks, adds to their warmth! Silver fox and the mink-dyed muskrat and squirrels are tonight favorites.

STATES TO CONTINUE USE OF SINGLE LICENSE PLATES

By International News Service
CHICAGO, Dec. 2—(INS)—Multi-colored license plates on the front and rear of automobiles will become virtually a thing of the past next year, the Public Administration Clearing House reported today.

They will be replaced by single plates of steel or plastics, tabs inserted in old plates, windshield stickers, or some other device designed to save vital war materials.

Despite the fact that the new devices are cheaper, administrators look forward to the time when steel again will be available to permit use of two steel plates each year.

Tags have proved difficult to administer, easy to remove and replace on other cars, and hard for enforcement officers to identify, according to a survey by the Federation of Tax Administrators.

Car owners dislike stickers and cause complications in the accounting office.

Two states which have used fiber board plates for passenger cars have found them successful. No state has used them for trucks, insofar as is known.

Only one new steel plate will be issued by half the states in 1944. Others will use substitute materials for their licenses.

Two states—Connecticut and Delaware—have permanent plate systems. Illinois, Louisiana, Montana and Virginia will issue two new fiber board plates for each car. Only truck licenses will be made of steel in Illinois and Louisiana.

Seven states will use small tabs and 11 will use stickers.

California will use tabs for motorcycles and trailers, but stickers for passenger cars.

Alabama, Washington and Wisconsin will combine the use of one rear plate with a windshield stamp and Wisconsin also will use a tab.

The one plate of Wyoming will be of fiber board or plastic. Several states, including New York, will use steel from discarded plates.

Some states will use a strip of metal to be attached to the old plate.

Only four states using tabs this year—Maryland, Nebraska, Texas and Wisconsin—will continue to do so in 1944, according to present information. Colorado and South Carolina will use tabs for the first time in 1944.

The federation reported stickers proved more successful than tabs. The following states using stickers in 1943 will continue the practice next year: Alabama, Arizona, Idaho, Iowa, Massachusetts, Oregon and Washington.

Arkansas tried masonite for plates on trucks and trailers this year, but found it too brittle.

Virginia found experiments with white pulp fiber board so successful that all plates will be made of this material in 1944.

Home Front Cotton Fashions Are Gift Stars

With practically all women doing K. P. and hostess duty these days, crisp fresh cottons will be happily welcomed on Christmas morning—happily worn throughout the year.

too! In fact, because the American woman is chief cook and bottle washer these days, she really needs and wants crisp efficient cottons to keep her looking and feeling fresh, to help make her chores easier. And there are gift cottons for every household chore imaginable, and scores of lovely cottons for entertaining at home, too! For hostess-chef duties, one of the pretty be-ruffled pinafores, wonderful protection over her prettiest party dress. For tending baby, marketing, neighborly visits and such, any of the young easy-to-wear cotton dresses will get a warm welcome. In button front coat, shirtwaist and casual styles, they are featured in crisply-fresh seersuckers, cotton broadcloths, percales. And whether she likes stripes, prints, or polka-dots—you'll find her preference at the local stores. Frilled or ric-rac trimmed brunchcoats, so figure-flattering and easy to wear, are sure to please gifts, so fetching they take Sunday brunch in their stride. Perfect little "extra" gifts are the gay half aprons, bow-tied and perky, and sure to give smart service. For service wives, these pinafores and aprons are excellent gifts because they're practical for the pantry, pretty for dinner, too. Good looking coverall work dresses in smart striped denim are under-scored, too, because they're trim, easy to work in, and efficient for any household chore. And incidentally fetching enough to greet the mail man, too! Cotton slacks and shirts as well as one-piece coveralls are good suggestions for those women who really do a man's job around the house these days (and so many of us do!). Of course, they are practical gifts for war workers, too.

Keep these cotton fashions in mind when you Christmas-shop, they'll really be appreciated by every woman on your list. Easy to wear, and wearably practical the year 'round, they're easy to care for, and so right for our busy work-a-day lives.

"DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND"

BOSTON — (INS) — Evangelist William H. Henderson finds historic Boston Common "the devil's playground." Tragedy stalks there, he reported to the Evangelistic Association of New England. Henderson, a top sergeant in the last war, patrols the Common for nearby Park Street Church, under the auspices of the Evangelical Association. In his report the evangelist said he was approached by seven women in two hours and saw hundreds of 'teen-age girls starting for trouble.

SHOOT AT LEAST 10 BUCK DEER AT SEASON'S OPENING

List Approximate Number For Bucks; Most In Tincum and Nockamixon

ALL FINE RACKS

Several Missed; Large Number Left For Late Season Hunters

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 2—At least 10 buck deer were shot on the opening day of deer hunting season in Bucks County, according to S. Earl Carpenter, district game protector.

Lapary Game Protector Russell Kohler, Chalfont, who accompanied the carpenter in making the rounds throughout the county, said that most of the deer were killed in Tincum and Nockamixon townships. All of the deer brought down by the hunters had fine racks, and their weight ranged from 140 to 175 pounds.

Mr. Kohler said also that a large number of deer seen were missed, and that a large number will be left for the sportsmen who may wish to hunt until the close of the season on Saturday, December 11.

FLEETWINGS FIVE SCORES VICTORY

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2—Beginning its second round, the Fleetwings five made its string of consecutive victory extend to five Tuesday night on the Germantown YMCA floor as it swamped the Erowater quintet, 53-39, in an Eastern Aircraft Association game.

"Mike" Bloom, former Temple ace, paced the Arrows to victory with 9 double-deckers. He was followed closely by Devon Smith and Abbott who scored 13 and 19 points, respectively.

The losers' best shot was Joe Gillingham who shook the cords for a sextet of twin-pointers and a foul.

Fleetwings amassed a 26-14 half-time score.

NEW WEATHER MAPS

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—Naval air cadets are studying with new three-dimensional weather maps, manufactured by the American Window Glass Co. of Pittsburgh. The maps, recently created by naval engineers, are devices by which the changing course of weather is not only plotted on the ordinary two-dimensional weather map but also made visible by the use of glass slides on which the climate factors existing thousands of feet above the ground are illustrated.

WHAT NEXT?

DES MOINES, Ia.—(INS)—Chief Counsel Donald Holdrege of the Des Moines district Office of Price Administration disclosed today

NOW WHAT? — By Jack Sords

LET YOUR HEART DECIDE

You can help keep them alive... and together... by giving generously, now. Your dollars will do a world of good when you give this year to your own community fund and, through it, to the 17 major war relief agencies of the National War Fund.

that child delinquency also is a problem of the rationing agency. He explained that the OPA's chief difficulty with children involves gasoline coupons. "The kids," he said, "steal coupons from parents or out of automobiles and filling stations and either sell them for 25 cents or so, or use them for running around at night."
